We clip the following from the Washington Chronicle, of the 12th inst: "The New York Herald is not good at guessing the way the wind blows at a future day, but when it does blow, that journal is not slow in finding out its course. It has heretofore maintained that the "Radicals were to be beaten out of sight this fall by the Copperjohnson party;" but it at length has discovered its mistake, and now admits that Clymer stands not the ghost of a chance against Gen. Geary in Pennsylvania; and it has discovered that the Irish Democracy in Maine helped to swell the great Republican victory in that State. The Herald is becoming sagacious; and it will discover before long that the Irish vote will do the business for some people nearer home."

In short this Maine election of 1866 will probably mark another new chapter in our political history and perhaps another reorganization of parties and another reconstruction of party platforms | and he never could have had a Judas unless for the Presidential election, beginning with the close of the coming elections of October and November."

We further clip from another article, in the same paper, "a word of advice" to its Southern friends. The Herald should have talked this way all the while, and not have that differs with them in opinion, and that pandered to the secession sentiment which now predominates in the Southern States, and has gathered strength and encouragement from the North. Although the Herald meant this article for the secession papers and their readers, there is no hope of its being circulated in such mediums, therefore we copy it for their special benefit.

"But we have a word to say specially to the old rebels of the South-a word of caution and warning that may do them good if they will heed it. Should President Johnson's humane policy to restore the South be defeated by the radicals, these men may blame themselves for it in a great measure. At New Orleans and Memphis they behaved in a manner to provoke bitter feeling in the North, and vindictive spirit of a portion of the Southern press arouses indignant opposition here. We are aware that the best and most sensible people of that section, and particularly such men as Generals Lee and Joe Johnston, Alexander Stephens and Gov. Orr. have no sympathy with these mischievous agitators; but the whole South is held responsible for such conduct. The bad and violent rebels play into the hands of the radicals and paralyze the efforts of the conservatives to bring restoration and peace to the Southern States. We have warned them from time to time of the consequences, pursue a different course the sentiment them. The passions of the war are not yet only part left for them to play in these times is to submit and wait patiently. They have no voice in the question of restoration; that is left to the North. The President, with to treat them in a humane and magnanimous spirit, as well as to restore them to their former political status; but this will be unavailing as long as they show a rebellious or vindictive disposition. Their fate and the future of their magnificent country hang in a nice and uncertain balance which their own good or bad conduct may turn one way or

Major-General John E. Wool has written a letter stating that he will attend the Soldiers' Convention at Cleaveland, and aid the cause in behalf of which it is called. The General says: "We have fallen on evil times, with indications of another civil war. Should it take place, it would be more terrible than the one from vicin we have just emerged. It would rend the country in fragments, never again to be united except under a military dictator."

Sour Lake must be a remarkable place, according to the correspondent of a Texas paper. not do it here to-night; but when you talk about New Orleans, and talk about the causes and consequences that resulted from proceedings of that kind, perhaps, as I have been introduced here and you have provoked questions of this kind, (though it does not provoke me,) will tell you a few wholesome things that have been done by this Radical Congress. For the Standard. Durability of the Atlantic Cables.

RALEIGH, Sept. 10, 1866. You ask if there is any natural cause t nterrupt the working of the Atlantic Cables? I answer that I am aware of but one that ppears imminent, and that danger can only be removed by time, and the fact, that it eems for some unknown cause not to be apprehended, because it is not, or has not been njured. Ice-bergs float in the waters of the ocean with four-fifths of their bulk under water and one-fifth above. They are known frequently to have embedded in them in large masses, rock and small stones and we tell them now that unless they with sharp cutting edges more or less hard, until the edges are worn smooth by friction of the North will be aroused against with the bottom of the ocean, its sands, shells and stone. Suppose a large Iceberg cooled down, and they ought to remember swims down from the north in the spring, that they are a conquered people and at the borne on currents and swayed by the winds, mercy of their conquerors. Resistance to and comes in contact with the shoaly bottom the authority of the government or even to the will of the people of the North would be tionary at the deepest and heaviest part, it madness and utterly ruinous, as they must is rocked by the currents, and tides of the know. They could gain nothing by that, sea and winds, and it exerts, of course, power and might lose all. Radical emissaries and sufficient, by plowing into the sands of the enemies will provoke them to violent acts if possible, as was the case at New Orleans; but that cannot excuse their own bad conduct. Their brutality at New Orleans is having a serious effect at the North. The large transport to the cables appears to my judgment to be, (which time appears to my judgment to be, (which time can alone determine in that they remain uninjured.) are their utter insignificance at the bottom of the ocean, amid countless larger objects, and its chief protection will be, that the conservative masses of the North, desires they may escape certain destruction for a few years from this insignificance.

> Movements of the Delegates of the Loyal Convention.

TRENTON, Sept. 10.—Governors Brown ow of Tennessee, Hamilton of Texas, and four or five other delegates from the Southern Loyalists' Convention, arrived here this evening and were received by a considerable parade of the members of the Legislature and citizens. A large number of carriages and a band of music were in the procession. The Loyal League rooms were handsomely decorated, and flags were displayed from several private residences. A large meeting was held in front of the League rooms, which was addressed by Governor Brownlow and

The Rebel Bonds. The London Daily News of August 31, in its city article, says: "The Confederate bonds, which of late have been altogether neglected, were in demand on that day at an advance. They opened at 41 and closed at 41 and 5-12th. It is surmised that accounts may have arrived favorable to the Philadelphia Convention, and the consequent return of the Southern States to Congress. It is difficult, however, to see how the prospects of the bondholders can thereby be improved, since the absolute condition has been made and agreed to that the war debt of the South shall be totally repudiated."

of the right remedy. Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse out the disordered humors—purify the blood, and let the fluids move on unobstructed in health again. They stimulate the functions of the body into vigorous activity, purify the system from the obstructions which make disease. A cold settles somewhere in the body, and deran-ges its natural functions. These, if not relieved, re-act upon themselves and the surrounding organs, producing general aggravation suffering and derangement. While in this condition, take Ayer's Pills, and see how directly they restore the natural action of the system, and with it the buoyant feeling of health again. What is true and so apparent in this trivial and common complaint is also true in many of the deep cost and and so apparent in this trivial and common com-plaint is also true in many of the deep-seated and dangerous distempers. "Far-fetched and dear-bought," is not always proof of value. The medical world is becoming alive to the fact that our common Dock Root of the fields, is an important remedial agent, and one of the most effectual alteratives known. It has always been a favorite medicine with the wise mothers of the country, for ulcers and sores, and tor purifying the blood. This root, which grows so abundantly around us every where, is now known to be one of the ingredients of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is attracting public attention by its extraordinary cures of cutaneous and ulcerous diseases. Each country produces the antidotes for its own disorders, as was said of old, "and upon the banks thereof shall grow all trees for meat, whose flower shall not fade, and the fruit thereof shall be for meat, and the leaf thereof for medicine."

T THE COLORED PEOPLE OF NORTH-CAROLINA Convention, 1866.

THE STATE CONVENTION OF COLORER THE STATE CONVENTION OF COLORER men, held in this City last September, as a medium through which the colored citizens could communicate their thoughts, purposes and desires, formed a State League, with its auxiliaries to look after the interests of the Colored People of the State. While we feel a deep sense of gratitude to those Benevolent Societies which have done so much for the Freedman, still we are conscious of the fact that we must learn to rely upon our selves, and the world is looking to us for onstration of our capacity to perform the part of useful, intelligent citizens.

The State League is the only recognized organ ization we, as a colored people, have; and it having performed its duties to the best of its having performed its duties to the best of its ability, it was enjoined on us to call another Convertion, to be held in the City of Raleigh, on the first Tuesday in October next, the second day of the month.
